Will Argue Writ of Habeas Corpus in Superior Court Next Week-Meanwhile Thaw Spends His Time in Jail. [BT ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Sherbrcoke, Que., Aug. 21.-Law yers for Harry K. Thaw, fencing for positior, in his fight to resist deportation to the United States after his flight from Matteawon won an advan tage in Sherbrooke today by delaying his appearance in the superior court on a writ of habeas corpus.

Dominion immigration officials, and with them the district attorney and sheriff of Duchess county, New York, had hoped that Thaw would be produced at 10 a. m., discharged on the present defective commitment and thus allowed to fall into their hands for deportation at a point on the border as yet undecided.

Dominion immigration officials, and with them the district attorney and sheriff of Duchess county, New York had hoped that Thaw would be produced at 10 a.m., discharged on the present defective commitment and thus allowed to fall into their hands for deportation at a point on the border as yet undecided.

Thaw's lawyers, however, believing in the advantages of delay, declined to serve their writ on the iniler, or as locally known the "governor of the prison" and Thaw remained in his bospital ward cell chatting with his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. George Lauder Carnegle.

Superior Judge Globensky was sought by the immigration officials and the officers from New York to insist on the service of the writ, ostensibly returnable forthwith, but the court held that Thaw's lawyers were within their rights. There were no court proceedings during the foremon although townspeople jammed the court room.

Thaw's battery of lawyers, victorious so far in the strange proceedings of keeping their client in jaii, agreed to announce this afternoon what disposition they purposed to make of their ide writ. If they still persist in not serving it, the immigration authorities and District Attorney Conger of Duchess county plan to have the writ declared void and insist on Thaw's arraignment at once, either here or at Coaticook, near where he was arrested.

Togday the case had reached a stage where the usual relations of the par-here or at Coaticook, near where he was arrested.

Today the case had reached a stage where the usual relations of the parties to a criminal action are absolutely reversed. On the one hand the lawyers for the prisoner were found fighting hard to relong his imprisonment, while the authorities, local. Dominion and United States, were anxious to have him set free, safe in the belief that the immigration officials would seize him and force him across the frontier.

Mr. and Mrs. Carnegie spent nearly an hour with Thaw before noon. "He is looking fine," said the former Mar garet Thaw as she left the jail.

Dr. Britton D. Evans, director of the New Jersey state hospital at Morris Plains, who arrived with the Carnegies last night, also conferred with Thaw.

Carnegies last night, also conferred with Thaw.
Charles D. White of Sherbrooke, who was Thaw's chief lawyer until S. A. Greencheilds, said:
"We delayed taking advantage of the writ of habeas corpus to get better acquainted with the case. It may be that we will wait a week. There is a corporal guard of us lawyers on the case and we may have to move slowly in order not to step on each other's feet."

After an all night conference coun-

The move came as a surprise to the immigration officials and to District Attorney Conger, and Sheriff Hornebeck of Duchess County, New York. They had expected that Thaw would be arraigned before noon today, released on the present committment and then held as an undesirable alien and quickly deported.

As matters stood this forenoon indications were that this program had simply been put off a day. With Thaw once in the hands of the immigration authorities opinion varies as to what course would be followed.

One version had it that he would be returned to Coaticook, where he was

Another theory advanced was that counsel for Thaw would attempt to Detroit and would demand that he be taken there an released.

A third conjecture was that the whole proceedings would be transferred to Montreall where the case would be threshed out before a special board of inquiry.

Neither Thaw's lawyers, nor the immigration officials nor officers from the state of New York seemed to know this morning just what the outcome would be. Messrs. Conger and Hornebeck hoped that some arrangement could be made whereby Thaw would be taken to the New York state line. From this point the immigration officers were non-committal.

Ottawa, Aug. 21.—Formal demand for the surrender of Harry K. Thaw was made by telegraph upon the Canadian immigration authorities here today by Acting Governor Glynn of New York. The department replied that it would take no action till the present extradition proceedings should be concluded.

The department let it be known that it would selze Thaw and attempt to deport him should his extradition to the United States be refused by the Dominion courts.

They explained that the writ is returnable at any time and although 10 A. M. today has been tentatively agreed upon yesterday they had decided to delay proceedings pending further conferences. According to present plans they will use the writ tomorrow morning.

This marking of time by the defense was due mainly to the arrival last night of Mr. and Mrs. George Lauder Carnegie, brother-in-law and sister of the prisoner who are anxious that no court step be taken until every bulwark of defense has been strengthened. J. D. Greenshields of Montreal, an eleventh hour addition to the Thaw lawyers, pointed out that the writ was returnable at the pleasure of counsel for Thaw and that it would be best to go over his case more thoroughly before coming into

"I'll be back in this country for my Christmas dinner," laughed young Porter Charlton, wife murderer, as he boarded the steamer a few days ago in New York, guarded by Italian authorities. His trip across the ocean is being made in the steerage, and his cuarters are reinforced with steel strips over the woodwork to prevent his possible escape. At Genoa he will be taken ashore and conveyed by train to Lake Como, the scene of the murder with which he is charged and for which he has been extradicted by the Italian government.

MRS. WORRY, SOMETHING TO WORRY ABOUT IN AUGUST.

Whenever the Washington Senators are scheduled to play the St. Louis Browns, Joe Engle, one of Clarke Griffith's young pitchers, sings a paean of joy. They say that every time Joe wins a game his father, who owns a restaurant in the capital, gives young Engle $100 and his friends a blow-out. That Engle does n't get a new century note every day is due to the fact that there's but one team in the league he can beat—St. Louis. Joe has won four games this year and lost five. All four of the victories were against St. Louis. While hurling against the Browns Joe looks like a Walter Johnson, a Joe Wood or a Christy Mathewson, but as soon as he faces any of the other clubs in the league he just naturally fades away and looks like a denizen of the bushiest bushes.

The drawing power of a baseball star have just been brought to the attention of fandom through the refusal of President Navin of the Detroit club to permit Ty Cobb to play one game per week this winter with the Venice, Cal. club. Venice offered Ty a proposition that would make a fat magnate of the New York financial district turn green with envy. But Navin wouldn't have it. It was just a plain business proposition with him. There's a chance of the Pacific coast being visited by the Tigers on their spring training trip. Cobb, as a special attraction in exhibition games would go a long way toward paying the entire expenses of the club's training trip. But this would not be the case if Cobb had his way and played all winter in the California city.

NINE GREAT RECRUITS ON AMERICAN MOUNDS THIS YEAR; BOEHLING, LEVERENZ, BUSH, RUSSELL, DAUSS GOING STRONG

This is a great year for young pitchers in the American league. Never before have recruits shown up so well. Boehling of Washington has a percentage above .750; Bush of Philadelphia has won about two out of every three games played; Daus of Detroit, and Russell of Chica have percentages well above .500. Leverenz of St. Louis and Ray Keating of New York have shown up well in all games play d, but owing to poor support given them are not standing very high in the averages.

MANY SUFFER.

The drain and the strain of the Balkan wars have not been confined to the nations actually involved. The waste and the burdens of the struggles between comparatively small states have fallen upon some of the foremost countries of the world as well as on the combatants, although, of course, in less degree.

High authorities estimate that Russia and Austria-Huzgary have spent?

sia and Austria-Hurgary have spent; $200,000,000, altogether, in mobilization movements and other preparations caused by the wars in the Baleninsula. In Germany and the wars in southeastern kan peninsula. Europe have been made the pretext for largely increased outlays upon armies and navies already very costly to the taxpayers of these great powers. It is believed that outside of the Balkans the military and naval burdens of Europe have been augmented fully $500,000,000.

Nor does this tell the whole story. Such expenditures for armaments en-tail heavy pressure upon the banking resources of the world The relations, between the great commercial countries are so intimate that an unusual financial strain in Berlin and Paris is quickly felt in London and New York. Business men in the most remote parts of the United States are mote parts of finding their bankers in danger of finding their bankers than then less able to accommodate them than they would have been if there had not been vaste waste of money in the Balkan wars.

War is by no means the sole con-cern of the powers involved in it. Any armed conflict between civilized states is dangerous, in greater or less degree, to the whole family of na-

THE SPEED MANIA.

A few days ago a young man who is director in twenty-three corporations by virtue of an inherited fortime got into the papers by hiring a special train to rush him from Minneapolis to New York ahead of all other trains. "When I travel," he said. "I want to move. My time is worth money and I waste time on slow trains.

Just how that declaration applies upon this particular performance is mot clear to a man whose time is not "worth money," considering the fact that he arrived in New York Saturday noon to attend a meeting which was not held until Monday.

Nearly everybody nowadays "wants to move" when traveling. The fiveday steamers to and from Europe are crowded-people wait for them rather than take boats a few hours slower. Many men, in making a railroad trip, are disconsolate if they can't ride on such a train as the "Empire State Express." Men. and women, too, risk their lives charging across crowded streets to catch a street car when an other on the same line is less than five minutes behind it. The automobilist is not content to go eighteen miles an hour; he wants to travel at Huerta and Lind are still dickering.

Huerta believes that the American people are not behind Wilson in his interference in Mexican affairs and consequently he has taken the high and lofty stand he has. It might be well for Huerta and all of the Mexican government officials to thoroughing the United States may be divided on policies, may differ as to methods, but the United States may be divided on or the nation's head it is resented, regardless of difference of opinion or previous condition of political servicude.

Signs of the Times.

It seems almost a sin for so many people to flock to summer resorts when Kansas is in urgent need of 40,000 harvest hunds.
Once again we hear that Mr. and Mrs. Alphouse Rubber of Misssouri, have welcomed a little stranger to their home. Probably it is a bouncing haby boy.

We see by the papers that a New York man has been shot in the tenderloin. Not necessarily a fatal place to be shot, probably.

People are very particular about automobiles, but they don't think anything of riding in a 1905 model street car.

Of course it is too late to do anything this summer regarding a public bathing house for the enjoyment of the river, but is not too early to take the matter up for next season. That intervention by the United States in the affairs of Mexico would be fraught with the gravest consequences, is the opinion of Francisco the La Barra, former provisional president of Mexico, and former Mexican ambassador at Washington, who is now in the United States on his way to France, to act as ambassador.

"Should there be intervention by any chance the universal foeling in Mexico would be such that it would be difficult to bredict the outcome," says De La Barra.

Gladstone once talked with much enthusiasm of James Russell Lowell about the noble conduct of the United States government, in providing pensions to the amount of tens of millions of pounds sterling a year for men who had served in the Civil war. "I do not wish to disparage the generosity of my countrymen," was Lowell's reply, "but I may just observe that these persons are voters."

Obedience Woman's Sole Lot.

In Japan man is the master and woman, if not the slave, his inferior molety. There is an old precept much quoted in the land of the mikade, "Woman must obey her father when she is a child; her husband when she is married; her son when she is a widow:" and although the time has gone when the Japanese male declared "woman has no soul" she is a long way from her emancipation.

Honest Advertising Since 1856:

The Honest Advertising Law, in force in many states, recently passed by the Wisconsin Legisla ture, is one of the best things that ever happened both for the retail stores and for the ultimate consumer. The law specifically states that all advertising must be honest, which is as it should be. We are glad to see this law in effect. It will put some stores where they belong. It does not effect us in any manner because since the inception of this store, at all times, since 1856, our advertising has never been other than honest.

The St. Paul passenger train, due to arrive in this city from Chicago at ten-thirty in the morning, was over two hours late today, due to a derailment which occurred a few miles this side of Chicago this morning. The train was going at a good rate of speed when the accident occurred. It took considerable time to make up a train to come on to Janesville, thus causing the long delay. No one is reported hut, although the sudden jar of the train leaving the track, sent a shock through the train, shaking the passengers up a bit.

GIRL IN THIS CITY

Albert Pouella of Chicago Meets With No Success Here-Clue Proves To Be Misleading.

Belleving that his thirteen year old daughter, Fannie, who disappeared from her home in Chicago last Monday, had runaway to this city to join G. S. Manna, a friend, Albert Pouella and a relative came to Janesville late yesterday aftersoon to make a search and a relative came to Janesville late yesterday aftersoon to make a search. Mr. Manna was discovered here but not the girl. The former is an intimate friend of the family, and this circumstance together with the fact that he had sent Fannie a post card from this city sometime ago led Mr. Pouella to believe that she may have come here. Mr. Manna denied that he had any knowledge of the girl's where abouts and his story satisfied the father that he was not implicated in her disappearance. Manna has been employed in the construction of the new railway bridge for some time past and has board and room at 221 North Franklin street.

Before the father of the missing girl arrived a telegram was received from Capt. John J. Halpin of the Chicago police force giving a description of the girl and where it was believed she would be found. Fanie Pouella is large for her age, weighs 110 pounds is live feet and five inches tall, has a reddish face and dark hair. When last seen she wore a light rose colored dress and black shoes. It is believed she may be hiding some place in Chicago.

ATTENTION CALLED TO TWO VIOLATIONS

Buildings Are Being Erected Without Permits

Without Permits

Attention of the City Council to two violations of the city building ordinances was called by Fire Chief Klein today in a communication filed with the city clerk. One is the erection on North Bluff street of a building by Bert Van Houter without a building permit. The other is that of the Rock County Telephone Company in building without a permit, and without complying with the specifications prescribed by the city ordinances. Soon after the communication was filed the Rock County Telephone Company made an application for a permit failure to secure one previously having been due to an oversight. The other violation is the use of walls of hollow tile with one layer of brick on the outside. The chief does not say that such construction is not safe, but that the city ordinances make no provisions for it, and he is not given any discretionary powers in the matter.

OBSTRUCTION OF GUTTERS IS SUBJECT TO PENALTY

Superintendent of Streets C. K. Miltimore desires to call attention to the fact that the depositing of ashes, rubbish and other substances in the gutters is a violation of the city ordinances and those guilty of it are subject to arrest and on conviction to a maximum fine of $25. There are a number of people throughout the city who are disregarding the ordinance. Thus far this season the city has been spared the expense incurred in many cities through washouts following heavy rains because the gutters have been kept froe and the sewers prevented from clogging, but if citizens persist in obstructing the gutters conditions may be reversed and private property owners as well as the city will suffer. side of Chickey of the most of the state of the content of the con

ERROR RESPONSIBLE FOR FARM TROUBLE

Manitowoc Farmer After Living on Land That . He Thought He Owned Has to Pay Homestead Rate, [BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Manitowoc, Aug. 21.—William Meyer, a town of Cato farmer, will spend fourteen months homesteading a 49 acre tract of land which, for years he believed he owned. Then he will pay the United States government $1.15 per acre for his own land.

Meyer got the land through his wife who believed that she owned it, and investigation recently made by Meyer, when he desired an abstract to sell the 40 acres, developed that the land had never been deeded by the government. Forty y/us ago the former town clerk, through error, had returned the property as delinquent for non-payment of taxes, but sovernment land being not taxable no title could so with the tax deed at the sale by the county treasurer. However, the land passed from one owner to another until Meyer, seeking an abstract, discovered the discrepancy. He erected a shack on his property yesterday to take possession.

There is an art in cutting meat and it is not easy work to do well, but the clumsiest butcher's boy can cut a shoulder of beef as neatly and accurately as his employer if he have the sawing machine invented by a California man. The meat block is attached to the machine and a reciprocating saw operates over it. The meat is laid on the black beneath the saw and the butcher turns a crank at the side with

The crank sets in operation the driving gear that moves the saw and, being multiple gear, it requires very little effort to turn the bandle. Impelled by this force, the saw goes through a piece of beef, bone and all, with no hesitation and along any line where it may be directed.

Thaw of her relations with White. In June, 1906, Thaw calmly shot down Stanford White on Madison Square roof garden in New York. He was twice tried for murder, in April, 1907, and in January, 1908. Both times Mrs. Thaw took the stand and told her sordid story in the hope of saving her husband. As a result she was socially ostracized. She has been on the stand each time that her husband has attempted to gain his freedom from the asylum. The life story of Evelyn Neshit Thaw, who has just been brought into public notice again through the escape from Matteawan asylum of her husband, Harry K. Thaw, is not a pleasant one. At the age of sixteen, when she was a beautiful artist's model, she mot Stanford White, the New York architect. In 1901 she met Harry Thaw, son of a Pittsburg millionaire, who fell madly in love with her. Four years later, in 1905, they were married, in spite of the protest of Thaw's parents. Shortly before the marriage Evelyn told gain his freedom from the asylum, and each time she has been compelled to repeat her story. A year and a half ago she give birth to a son, whom Harry Thaw disowns. Recently she went into bankruptcy, declaring she was worth only $250.

of view well worth considering, although I must admit I combatted them warmly when I heard them.

Personally, I don't believe,—as I have said elsewhere in this column,—that a girl needs to cease being a daughter when she becomes a wife, or that a man needs to forget he is a son the moment he becomes a husband.

Nor do I think that the young people who trample indifferently upon the happiness of the old folks in their mad race for happiness for themselves, will find that happiness very satisfying when they clutch it.

But on the other hand, the older folks certainly ought not to forget that the young people have their own lives to mobid, and they ought to give them every chance to do this in their own way. If the older folks were unhampered in their youth, they ought to want to give their children as good a chance; and if the older folks, themselves, suffered from exactions and interferences in their young married lives, they ought to have learned from their own suffering a sympathy that would make them determine not to inflict such suffering on their beloved children.

We talk a great deal about the selfishness in the young. Let us not forget that selfishness in old people is even more ugly.

TITIOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson—I am a young girl in love with a man several years my senior. He calls on me almost every week and tells me that he loves me, but he doesn't want any of his friends to know that he calls on me. Do you think he loves me? I doubt it very much, also my people don't like him. But I could never give him up. Please tell me what you think, about him.

on me. Do you think he loves me? I doubt it very much, also my people don't like him. But I could never give him up. Please tell me what you think, about him.

My folks want me to marry a man ten years my senior. He is a perfect gentleman but I could never love him and. don't believe in marrying without love. They tell me to marry the man they want or leave home. Do you think they are doing right?

In seeking for a position, does one have to apply personally or send in an application? If I leave home would you advise me to work in a store, or stay and work with some different people, as I am a good housekeeper.

A BROKEN HEARTED PEARL.

There is something decidedly wrong with a man who doesn't want his irfines to know that he is paying attention to a girl. He does not love you honorably and you will be wise to give him up at once, It will hur at first, of course, but be a sensible little girl now if you would be happy later on.

Your parents cannot compel you to marry against your will. If you do not care for their choce of a husband do not marry him. Your parents must be tired of supporting you if they want te get rid of you so much that they would force you to marry a man you dan't care for.

in any other way.

"All the return a father or mother ought to ask from grown-up sons and daughters is love and appreciation, and of course, when that is necessary, financial assistance. They have no right to ask that the children shall live with them to keep them from being lonely, or shall alter the course of their lives for their convenience."

The above opinions were expressed to me by a woman the other day.

No, she is not a young wife made resentful by interference from the older generation.

Quite the contrary. For she, herself, belongs to the older generation in years, although emphatically not in thought. She has brought up six children; one is just married; another is about to marry, and a third ment of youth or by personal inconvenience, they would not weigh much; but they are her honest and cool blooded opinion of the faults of the class to which she belongs. And because of that, I think they are a point considering, although I must admit 1 combatted them.

HOT WEATHER DRINKS.

During the hot weather there is great demand for cooling drinks, and we prefer those made at home with naterials which are unquestionable, rather than many which are served in bottles or at the fountains. In the following, there surely will be found one which will suit the palate of all:
Ginger Water.—This is th old-fashioned drink which used to be carried to the fields to refresh the tillers of the soil who have made our country what it is today. This drink is just as popular today among the descendunts of the early fathers of our country, and is so easily prepared that it should be more frequently used. Take a tablespoonful of ground ginger, add three of sugar and a pint of ice cold water; stir well and serve. In the olden times they sweetened this with molasses.

Rhubarb Drink.-This is a very refreshing as well as wholesome drink for children. Boil seven or eight stalks of ple plant in a quart of water for ten minutes; strain into a pitcher in which has been placed the thin rind of a lemon. Add four tablespoonfuls of sugar and let stand for a few hours before serving.

Orangeade.-Make a strup by boiling half a pound of lump sugar with a cup of water. Pare four oranges very thinly, put the rinds in a pitcher and pour on the boiling hot strup. LOVING HEART.

The Unknown is anxious, after the Atlas success, to try out his discovery on the larger scale. He will naturally do so at the first opportunity after his water-pot is refilled. But he wishes to do so at the first effective opportunity. What is the most effective moment? The rush hours. What are the rush hours? From eight to ten, and at six. Since he did not pull off his show in the morning, we are fairly justified in concluding, tentatively, that the water-pot was not full by then, and, as the Atlas phenomena anhaided at three of the morning before, the inference is obvious.

"But isn't the most effective time at fight, anyway, on account of the ights?" asked Jack. "Good boy!" approved Darrow. "He night have waited for that. But the sity-wide phenomena ceased at eight the night before; and the Atlas sound phenomena did not occur until ten the next morning—fourteen hours. Now, the most effective time to scare McCarthy was any time after nine. McCarthy arrives as the clock strikes. Jack shook his head.

"Oh, it's not proof; it's idle hy othesis," admitted Darrow. "We shall have to test it. But let's go on with anyway, and see how it works out." "What's McCarthy got to do with en's eyes were shining with interest. "Now," continued Darrow, "having tried out his new power to the limit, our friend would begin to use it only as he needed it. There is now no reason to empty the water-pot entirely. All he wanted to do this morning was to scare McCarthy, and impress the public. He did that, in thirty-Cleanest, most heat units, goes eight minutes. On the basis of fourteen hours to fill the water-pot, it is evident that he would be rehabilitated, ready for business, in an hour. Therefore, all he is waiting for now is the most effective moment to try out his city-wide experiment of silence. I imagine that will be about six."

"Sounds reasonable." admitted Jack. Helen.

"No," said Darrow, "I do not. It would confuse the phenomena, and they must be unconfused in order that can either prove or disprove my hypothesis. If this lasts about two hours, the fact will go far to prove me right. If the next manifestation comes at about ten the next morning we shall have established a periodicity, at least. But if the man realizes that his existence is suspected, he will purposely vary in order to mix me աթ.՝

"Why not," smiled Darrow, "until he has scared McCarthy out?" "Which will it be next time, do you

The Great Silence. Percy Darrow sat quite calmly, though a little hungrily, through the first of the two hours of the Great Silence. As it fell, he looked at his watch; then went on reading. Strangely terrifled faces flitted by the open door of his little room. About seven o'clock Darrow, struck by a sudden idea, arose, walked down the corridor outside, and quite deliberately set to work to force the light door. As has been intimated, either by direct order of McCarthy or because of same vague

CHAPTER IX.

Few realize how important a role sound plays in what might be called the defensives of our every-day life Sight is important, to be sure, but it is more often corroborative than not; it is more often used to identify the source of the alarm that has been communicated through other channels. When we are told of the hero—or the villain-that he stood "with every sense alert," our mental picture, in spite of the phrasing, is that of a man listening intently for the first intimations of what may threaten.

The people in the streets were, for the most part, either standing stock-"Reasonable!.. It's certain!" cried still, or moving slowly forward in a groping sort of fashion. Darrow, for the second time, noticed how analogous to the deprivation of sight was the total deprivation of hearing and feeling vibration.

> Traffic was at a standstill. People's faces were bewildered, for the most part; though here and there one showed contorted with the hysteria of fright, or exalted with some other, probably religious, emotion. The same impression of ghostliness came to Darrow here as in the Atlas Building. Visual causes were not producing their wonted aural effect.

This complete severance of one cause and effect was sufficient to discredit all natural laws. No other

But as he proceeded down-town the spell was beginning to break. People were communicating with one another by means of pencil and paper. Darrow was amused, on crossing the park, to see against the lighted windows on Newspaper Row the silhouetted forms of activity. Evidently, the newspaper men were aiready at work on this

Near the corner of the park Darrow saw standing a policeman of his varied acquaintance. The scientist walked up to this man, who was standing in the typical vacant uncertainty, smiled agreeably, clapped him on the back, and shook his hand. The patrolman grasped Darrow's hand, but the look of groping uncertainty deepened on so that tourists may see more of the wonderful mountain country. Secretary Lane is now going over the ground, guided by Tom Dawson, an old half-breed Indian, to see the proposition at first hand.

While the secretary is there he is also investigating the condition of the Blackfeet Indians, whose reservation adjoins the park.

The upper picture shows Secretary Lane dressed in his mountain climbing clothes and attended by several Blackfeet chiefs looking over a relief map of the park before the journey of exploration started.
